FIRST RESPONDERS SEEK DONATIONS FOR VEHICLE

Amana First Responders are looking to purchase a newer vehicle for the service. The current vehicle is over 30 years old and the cost to maintain it far exceeds its remaining lifetime.

As an all volunteer organization, first responders are not taxpayer funded and rely on the generosity of the community we serve.

If you can help, please send donations to Amana First Responders, c/o Lucas Miller, 1713 S Ave., South Amana, IA 52334. Please make donations payable to Amana First Responders. If you would like additional information about Amana First Responders call Lucas at 319-551-5587. Thank you.

MIDDLE BARN CLEAN UP

We are asking for volunteers to come to the Middle barn complex on October 8 at 10 am to help remove trees and vines from the barns. Trees and vines have already begun to cause damage that may be impossible to reverse if it is allowed to continue. If you are able to join us that morning please bring gloves, saws (a chainsaw or two with able operators would be much appreciated), and pruners. We could also use 2-3 pickup trucks to haul refuse to the dump. Rain date will be October 22nd. Any and all helpers are welcome. Questions? email Betsy Momany at busterb@southslope.com.

FEATHERS IN THE WIND

Sometimes I feel like I am sitting in front of a space ship control panel. There is the control to lift my chair and recline it or to even "eject" me. (That can be amusing for my family when instead of "pushing" the control button, I "sit" on it.)

Then there is the ever elusive television remote control which requires first a search, then an argument with my husband about where it is and why HE has hidden it only to have him get up and look under the cushion of MY chair and wave to control in my face with that "I told you so" look on his face.

Then comes not one but two control boxes for DVD's or "Netflix" both of which I don't know how to use and really should not have anywhere near me.

On top of that is that evil instrument we refer to in polite company as "the telephone."

Last Saturday I got nine (9) phone calls total none of which were from friends, but telemarketers. Luckily we have chosen to pay extra and gotten caller I.D. however there is always that one telemarketer that slips by and begins by pronouncing our last name incorrectly. That should be our first clue to hang up, but if we don't they ask how we are.

Believe it or not I've told I was sick, just out of the hospital, all sorts of things, but they don't listen and go merrily on with their "spiel." Lately it's been about life insurance which, if they had listened should have stopped them.

I then say "it's taken care of" and hang up, but not before they add - well wouldn't you like to add on to your policy? GRRRRR!

Sure, why not? I'm taking all my valuables with me so with all that extra money maybe I can have pockets added to the lining of my coffin!

Would you believe that the evening Charlemagne and I got married and everyone was assembled and waiting for me the telephone RANG? Honest!

Like a fool I answered and then came to my senses and said, "can't talk now" and slammed down the receiver.

The last, and perhaps most important thing, is my laptop or tablet and pen. Ever since I've had this metal rod put into my upper arm I have gotten really bad pain from over use.

Writing on this new computer is a learning lesson of word obscenities. The air turns blue and Charlemagne looks to the east for signs that the Russians have bombed Ukraine's nuclear reactor.

Meanwhile I go to my pen and tablet and write and "beg" poor Dan for help yet again.

He spent a few years in military service so he knows a little something about warfare even if it comes from that woman sitting at her control panel in Homestead

B.S.H.

P.S. Doesn't Homestead have radioactive water?
