4TH OF JULY THANK YOU

A big thank you to another Big Boomer donating +$1000. The Amana Society Incorporated.

FEATHERS IN THE WIND

Sometimes something really special appears and you hold your breath in awe and thank God for allowing you the privilege of seeing this work of nature before you.

You too can see it by driving to the intersection of 151 and 6 north of Homestead. I realize you'll have to cross the mighty Iowa River if you're coming from the north and then scaling the hill which holds deer that just might leap out in front of your car and do damage, but it's worth it.

The Amana Farms has kindly planted sunflowers in the field along with a corn maze in the shape of Iowa for us and the bikers which will come through on their RAGBRAI journey.

Please don't disturb it, but look at it and wonder why those sunflowers are not following the sun, but instead have their "faces" turned to the north east.

My sister would love it because her favorite color was always yellow and this is a "sea of yellow."

So thank the farm workers for their kindness in planting those flowers and giving us something instead of listening to politicians and those weather forecasts of doom. This was certainly a show of "grace."

Before I finish, thanks to a certain man at the Main Office who had the foresight to open the mill race dam in West thus allowing water into the Lily Lake so we do have lilies this year.

They may not be as plentiful as years past, but they are there - right on time.

If you are so inclined you might look up why they are called LILY, It just might please you to know.

Farrier joined the group this past spring and has been getting acquainted with the organization and its membership while jumping in with both feet to get the busy summer season rolling. Having grown up in Amana, she knows Amana well, of course, but she has enjoyed meeting the artists. "I think getting to know the artists has been my favorite thing so far, that and working with our board. Our board is wonderful, very dedicated."

Impressed by the art she is seeing in Amana Colony workshops and studios, Farrier said, "The amount of work being done, the scope and the creativity is truly amazing and really inspiring."

"I'm just amazed at how many people are really, really doing wonderful things in the Colonies," she added.

If you've stepped into the Amana Arts Guild Gallery lately you may have met Rachel or perhaps you met Rachel's younger sister who is working there part time this summer and looks just a bit like her older sis. "Yes, we've been confused for one another! She's been lending a hand there," Farrier explained. This summer the Gallery on Main has added hours and several new artists so stop by to check it out.

Coming up there's the Fresh Paint Iowa Plein Air competition over Labor Day weekend and of course, the annual Summer Festival of the Arts on Saturday, August 12.

This year you have the chance to win a Gordon Kellenberger painting at the AAG Summer Festival of the Arts. Farrier said that raffle tickets are available for purchase now at the Gallery on Main and this beautiful painting will be raffled at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday during the arts festival. "It's really lovely - I hope people stop by to see it at the Gallery," she said. The fund drive will help support the AAG's ongoing schedule of classes and programs.

It's not too late to join other artists and craftspeople at the AAG Summer Festival of the Arts as an exhibitor. Do you have craftwork, folk art, something you make, that you want to sell? Contact Farrier at 319-622-3678 for information on how you can join in the event.

Farrier is working hard on the Iowa Plein Air competition, Fresh Paint. Fresh Paint was established and nurtured by Jenise and Ithiel Catiri as Amana's first ever plein art competition. The event grew to a three day happening with awards, cash prizes and more. Last year the Catiris handed over the reins to the AAG and this is the second year the nonprofit is managing the competition.

"We've seen so much interest in this event - both as an opportunity to paint outdoors in the Amana Colonies and as a competition," she said. Farrier is looking for business sponsors. There are a variety of ways a merchant or business might sponsor the event, she explained.

Currently the event is sponsored by the Amana Society, Inc. the Amana Family Practic Clinic, the Deborah Kimm Gallery, White Cross Cellars, Millstream Brewing Co, the Price Creek Event Center, the Ronneburg, Die Heimat Country Inn, Zuber's Homestead Hotel and the Amana Colonies Guest House Motel.

An awards party and celebration will be held Sunday, Sept. 3 at 6 p.m. at the Amana Performing Arts Center. At the party you can view all the artwork, vote for your favorite works, enjoy appetizers, entertainment and locally crafted wines and beers. The event is open to the public - tickets are $15.

To learn more check out the AAG website or the Fresh Paint website at freshpaintiowa.org.

THE ACLUD CORNER"

Did You Know?....

There are many beautiful sandstone brick structures in the Amana Colonies. However, many people might not realize that this type of brickwork and mortar (from the nineteenth century) is much softer than typical (more modern) masonry. Specifically, if you plan to tuckpoint your historic masonry, it is important that the proper formula of mortar is used. The ACLUD office has a document titled "Repointing Amana Buildings" which is available for homeowners and contractors. It provides the mortar formula recommended by the Iowa State Historic Preservation Office.

For further information regarding your local government visit our website www.aclud.org or call the office in Amana at 319-622-3840
